Description

The figure of a man in a dark suit in art gallery is looking at an image of a stone statue of a seated figure on the left wall. The figure's head appears to be made from dark bubbles that are curving upward and flying away from his body. Surrounding the image of the ancient stone statue and projecting off of the wall is a pyramid. On the wall behind the figure is a large image of human-like facial elements, including eyes and noses. A shadow of a quack mask is visible on the floor in front of the figure.
