Description

Two-part ceramic container with a yellow brown glaze on the outer component and a matte yellow coloring on the inner component. The outer component is a tall rectangular shape with squared corners, and the inner component is the same height with rounded walls. The two pieces are not attached, but the inner piece fits neatly inside the outer. Photographs from a past exhibit of Shonnard's sculpture, found in NM History Museum photo archive, show the inner component being used as a flower vase.
