Description

Unmatted landscape with a rock formation and a path. The rock formation fills the left edge of the page, mostly gray but with green and orange. A tree grows just to the left of the rock, and a path arcs from the lower left corner around this tree to disappear into the distance. On the right there are red, yellow-green, and blue-green hills with leafless white-barked trees. A low white fence cuts between the red and green areas on this side. In the distance is a very small structure, maybe a house, and behind that are purple and blue mountains.
